

Just to let you know...

As an introduction to our Great Expedition the children have applied to be accepted by the Royal Geographical Society. They have explained why they are particularly suited to a certain role on the expedition, choosing either anthropologist, scientist or naturalist. They also wrote about the skills and knowledge they have already acquired. They will find out after half term if their applications have been successful!

Dear Parents,
 It was lovely to see so many of you at our information evening on Wednesday. If you were unable to attend you should have received the paper work by pupil post. Please ensure that the forms for Preston Montford and the Trinity Trek are returned as soon as possible.

We do hope you enjoy a lovely half term holiday.
 Best wishes,
 Clare, Mary, Sarah, Tracey, Claire and Helen

The children's own LEAPS projects are progressing well; each child is now becoming an expert on different aspects of Victorian life and they are working cooperatively to present their work to others. We have been impressed by diaries, Scratch videos, recipe books, fact files and beautiful artwork. Some children will need to do some work at half term!

In maths this week we have introduced Victorian currency to the children. At Preston Montford, they will be spending their pocket money at Blists Hill after exchanging it into shillings and pence so they need to be aware of how much things cost!

Over half term, please continue to read regularly!
 Group reading on Thursday 6th as usual.
