

Just to let you know...

HOMEWORK

In preparation for our Earth Summit can you look for an inspirational quote. The quote should be linked with your area of research. Copy the quote down and decorate.

We loved hearing all of the musical talent during our house Music Medley competition on Tuesday. Four children have been selected from each house and will be performing in assembly on Friday. Well done to all of the children who participated—they were extremely brave!

We are looking for parents who can help with our Reading Partners program in the afternoons. If you would like more information and are able to help, please email Tina Metcalf at: tinam@holytrinity.surrey.sch.uk.

If you have not turned in your Intech permission slip yet, please remember to do this as soon as possible!

Many thanks,
Heather, Nick and Cheryl

During topic this week, we have been using our research skills to learn about the planets. The children focused on questions such as:

- How does that planet's atmosphere differ from Earth?
- How far away is it from the sun
- What temperature is your planet? How is this different from the others?

Spellings

Group 1: comfort, comfortable, depend, dependable, achieve, achievable, debate, debatable

Group 2: rely, reliable, enjoy, enjoyable, envy, enviable

The children have also been continuing to edit their creation stories. They did an excellent job evaluating their own writing and then assessing someone else's work. Children were able to use their success criteria and non-negotiables to suggest improvements and generate their own next steps. This is something we hope to continue as it was so successful!

In maths this week, we have been looking at reflection and lines of symmetry.

If you would like to practise visit:

www.primaryresources.co.uk/online/reflection.swf

