

Just to let you know...

We've had another week of exciting Space exploration. The children enjoyed watching clips of Tim Peake in Space and were fascinated to see how the astronauts brushed their teeth! This inspired them to think about questions they'd like to ask about life in Space and write to Tim. They had great fun completing a mission to Mars—carrying beakers of Space liquid across an exciting obstacle course.

In Maths we looked at measure and enjoyed weighing out ingredients and baking rock cakes for a lovely teddy bears' picnic. If you are cooking or baking over the weekend, encourage your children to help you weigh out and measure quantities.

It's not long until our trip to 'The Lookout Discovery Centre', on Wednesday 13th June, a letter will follow soon.

Please continue to revisit the digraph sounds in the back of the jtlyk books. Remember to point them out in words as you read with your child.

Have a lovely weekend, Reception Team x
