

Just to let you know..

Group reading will be back to normal on Tuesday; many thanks for your continued support! Please continue to discuss the text as this is as important as reading regularly.

As part of our Tudor topic we considered the legacy left to us by William Shakespeare. We looked at the witches spell, Act 4 scene 1, focussing on rhyming couplets, alliteration and synonyms. The children have edited their work looking for more powerful verbs and adjectives. They enjoyed using the word banks we created; do you know your canthus from your naris, or your axilla from your hallux?

Our Tudor Banquet was a huge success! The children looked amazing in their costumes and thoroughly enjoyed the different activities available; they impressed us all with their musical skills, agility, dancing, acting, and culinary knowledge. Please look at the photos on the web site.

Dear Parents,

Next week is our Christmas production. Many thanks to those of you who have already provided your child with a costume; we are looking for a basic shepherd look—dressing gowns and tea towels! There will be an optional late start on Friday 6th please arrive by 10.30. Children should drop bags off and then go straight to the Chapel on arrival.

Don't forget we are having our school Christmas lunch on Friday, too! Please remember to send your completed slip to the school office.

Next week is also our RE week, where we will be taking an in-depth look at the Christmas story.

Many thanks
Y5 Team

In maths this week, we have been investigating triangles. The children have used protractors to measure angles accurately, have worked out unknown angles, and solved complex and challenging angle problems.

Every child has been a password and username for Mathletics — please make sure you've had a look at it and encourage your child to look at the homework section.
