

Just to let you know...

Literacy

The children have written the most beautiful and inspiring speeches. We hope you enjoyed reading some of these at Parents' Evenings. Later in the week the children read a number of diary excerpts from a range of writers, Samuel Pepys, Anne Frank etc and will go on to write as if they were an explorer during the reign of Elizabeth I.

Maths

Excellent work on angles has been covered this week. The children understood the different names for angles, how to use a protractor accurately and how to make sensible estimates. They are continuing to work on timed number bonds, timed multiplication tables and prime numbers. Do see the website in Homework if you would like further reinforcement.

Spellings

Simile
Metaphor
Refer
Referring Preferred
Transferred Reference
Referee
Preference
Transference

HOMEWORK

Children may be bringing home pieces of work to finish. Some children may be finishing off writing up their speeches.

This week continuing all their hard work on understanding the different features of speeches, we would like the children to write their own. This could be a speech about an issue they feel strongly about, a pastime they enjoy or anything that they feel excited or motivated about. The children can take up to two weeks to do this, although there will be some maths set for next week.

If your child would like to reinforce their maths understanding this week they could use the website: mymaths
Password: squared Username: pewley. Click on Shape, Angles, Measuring Angles, Lesson