ChoirBLAST, a celebration of contemporary choirs.

ChoirBLAST festival returns to Godalming this June for its fourth year, bringing together voices, communities, and an extraordinary shared love of singing.

This joyful, non-competitive festival takes place across two days:
Friday 12 June (evening)
and Saturday 13 June, from 11am until 10pm.

Across the weekend, over 100 contemporary choirs from across the UK - and beyond - will fill the town with sound, performing on multiple stages throughout Godalming. This year's festival is bigger than ever, with two additional stages joining returning favourites, offering simultaneous performances across open-air spaces, historic buildings, and local venues.

ChoirBLAST has a festival buzz that welcomes everyone, and is proudly family (& dog) friendly. So, whether you're a devoted singer or simply someone who loves live music drifting through a summer town, this is the event for you!

As a charity, our aim is simple:

to make music accessible to everyone.

ChoirBLAST exists to create and sustain accessible, free-to-attend community choirs and to provide more events that are inclusive and diverse for choirs of all abilities to perform and share the joy of singing.

In the spirit of the festival,

ADMISSION IS FREE,

with donations warmly welcomed online in advance or with one of our friendly volunteers.

All proceeds go directly to the ChoirBLAST charity.
